

The system is an online network where different individuals can log in and donate academic resources.

Type Of Users

Just one user identification. A user can be either a donor or receiver, no difference.

Types Of Donation

Book:- The user would need to login to their account to donate or receive books. When a book is donated, a message would be sent to the user via means of communication, be it WhatsApp or SMS for verification (Nexmo can be used for this). and once the user confirms (using the social media APIs) an update could automatically be sent to our social media pages to attract more users and donors.

Materials:- this will follow the same process as written above just under a different category.

Time:- This could be a little different from the two stated above. We believe there are some people who would like to give to the community but have not money or material but have experiences in certain academic subjects, the platform gives a way in which they can also contribute by teaching, writing and making academic videos.

As for now all communications would be done using various social media platforms like WhatsApp and when YouTube for online tutorial given by donor.

Money:- This is also a little different the user can decide to be either anonymous by donating without a profile login or known by donating with a profile.

Pages in the Service

Homepage:- where the user sees when he login initially. There will contain our vision and goals and periodically our top giver will be featured on the page.

Login/Sign in Page:- Where the user creates his account and then verified for proper functioning.

Profile page :- Where a user puts in their details so that proper identification can be done.

List of Donation Page:- all donated items will be listed and categorized on this page for recipient to find and request.
